

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

For the Times.
THE SETTING AND THE RISING SUN.

THOU art to me, thou glorious setting sun!
A mournful image of the golden age;
For thou a downward course dost swiftly run
And leave the dreary earth a darkened page.
And as the hills along the shadowy West
Awake are glided in the lingering ray,
So did the loving ages of the best.

Days earth with brightness as they passed away,
And then arose 'midst the silver moon,
To cheer the heart and light the steps of men;
But even simple faith expired too soon,
And left the shaking world in gloom again.

Then clouds and darkness spread themselves over
And cover'd the universal gloom.
The Man seemed cover'd with a frigidal pall,
And verging fast to an eternal tomb.

But as the darkest hour precedes the dawn,
So with the moral darkness of our race
That fallen man might hail a brighter morn.

The Son of Heaven swifly had his face
Now, who shall tell the brightness and the length
Of the glad day that now is gently breaking?

Oh, who shall tell the glory and the strength
To which the human mind at last is wak'g!
